

DEMOCRATS TO START AT WORK

Great Denver Convention Is Over And Delegates Are Leaving For Their Homes.

BRYAN AND KERN THE NOMINEES

Everything Handled Just As Planned Out By The Candidate In His Home In Lincoln; Nothing Went Wrong.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Denver, Colo., July 11.—The great democratic convention is over. William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska and John W. Kern of Indiana are to be the standard bearers.

The great and dried gathering of the mighty democratic party is finished.

Down to the minutest detail it has been carried out as per arrangement at Lincoln.

The delegates had nothing to do but respond when called on. The only thing they could do was to talk and the past week has been filled with speeches.

At Lincoln, Bryan has waited with confidence as to what was happening at Denver.

Some of the delegates say that Bryan did not want Kern as a running mate but that he did not appear satisfied with the photograph of him.

The vice-presidential aspirants were John W. Kern of Indiana, Charles A. Tamm of New York, Archibald McNeill of Connecticut, and Clark Howell of Georgia. Kern's nomination was made late yesterday after all had withdrawn, by acclamation.

It has been a great gathering taken from every point of view.

The platform adopted has many striking peculiarities and still it fits in with the ideas of democracy.

The nomination of Bryan was expected. That his total vote was slightly larger than some figured on is true, but nothing could have defeated him.

The elimination of Guffey of Pennsylvania, and McCarron of Brooklyn, two of the picturesque characters of democracy of the old regime, was one of the striking features of the week.

The workings of the convention have made powerful enemies for Bryan. Guffey will go back with a grim determination to "do or die" in showing that he is still boss of his state.

McCarron, the boss of Brooklyn, is equally determined and it will have to be a cyclone that will stop him.

Then Georgia, fair Georgia, the stronghold of democracy, is said to be a doubtful state. When all the cheering went on Wednesday afternoon Georgia remained silent and took no part in the demonstration.

The Bryan leaders, however, figure on a good vote in Wisconsin and Minnesota. They think they can swing Indiana in line with Kern's aid and are to fight in Ohio aided by the disgruntled republicans.

Already the talk of national committee chairman is heard. Ryan of Wisconsin is suggested as are others equally prominent.

It is whispered here today that Ryan could have had the second place on the ticket if he had wanted it.

The report today that House's two papers in New York and his two Chicago papers would bolt Bryan and the democratic ticket was received with surprise.

It was hoped that influences could be brought to bear that would swing the young publisher into line.

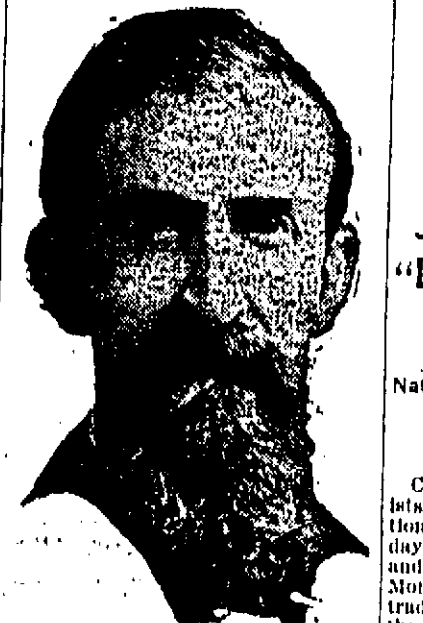

Returning delegations are planning a stop at Bryan's home in Lincoln on their return.

The Tammany "braves" will visit him today and others will follow.

With the exception of the committee men and others who have work to finish up the delegates are leaving the city by every train.

The extreme heat has driven many to the mountains but others are going directly home.

"DRYS" PREPARE FOR A BIG CONVENTION TO CONSIDER MANY VEXING PROBLEMS

National Prohibition Convention will be held in Columbus Next Week.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Columbus, O., July 11.—Prohibitionists are beginning to arrive for the national convention to be held Wednesday and Thursday at Memorial hall, and the state convention to be held Monday and Tuesday at the board of trade auditorium. Headquarters for the two gatherings were opened today at the Noll house. It is expected that all of the delegates to the state convention will have arrived before tomorrow morning.

At various hotels headquarters have been reserved for good-sized delegations from Minnesota, Dakota, Michigan, Montana, Colorado, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas and Iowa. The delegations from New England and the East are expected to be of large proportions, and the South will be better represented than at any of the previous conventions of the party.

The national convention will be called to order at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning by Charles R. Jones, chairman of the national committee. Compulsory figures in the gathering will be such old-time prohibition leaders as Dr. Samuel Dickie of Oregon, Col. W. C. Swallow of Pennsylvania, Oliver W. Stewart of Chicago, A. G. Wolfenbarger of Lincoln, Neb., and Felix T. McWhirter of Indianapolis.

The list of presidential possibilities is being added to daily. (Among those whose names are being prominently mentioned for the presidential nomination are Southern Wright of Georgia, Frederick Wheeler of California, Joseph P. Tracy of Michigan, Dr. J. B. Cranfill of Texas, Alfred Maudslayi of New York, and Dr. W. B. Palmer, editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate.)

The selection of vice-presidential nominees will depend largely upon what section of the country the presidential choice comes from. Among the candidates are Judge Samuel A. Artman of Indiana, J. B. Lewis, a member of the Massachusetts legislature, and Professor A. S. Watkins of the Ohio Northern university.

The chief business of the convention, aside from the nomination of a ticket, will be the adoption of a platform. It is said that the platform this year will have little to say on any question other than that of the liquor traffic. In the course of the convention proceedings there will be reports and discussion of the present wave of prohibition spreading over the country by leading members of the party.

University's Summer Session Program for Next Week is Full of Discussions of the Unemployed, Education, and Civic Ideals.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., July 11.—Lectures on many important public problems will be given next week in the summer session of the University of Wisconsin. The program, which has just been completed, opens Monday morning with an hour's discussion of concrete cases of assistance for the needy and the problems arising from such cases. Mrs. Anna Gurin Spencer of New York will deliver the lecture preceding the discussion on "How to Grapple with Problems of Personal Ministry." Wednesday, Mrs. Spencer will speak on "The Out-of-Work," and on Friday on "Epitaph for the Unemployed." Monday afternoon, Prof. J. L. Barlett of the United States weather bureau will speak on "Cyclones, Hurricanes, and Tornadoes." Dr. William E. Chandler, recently superintendent of schools at Washington, D. C., lectures Wednesday afternoon on "The Universal School." An illustrated lecture on "Liquid Air" will be given Saturday noon by Prof. A. Hoyt Taylor of the physics department.

Other lectures of interest include Percival Chubb's series on the ethical values in literature and festivals; "The Gospel of the Hebrew Prophets," by Professor Nathaniel Schmidt of Cornell university; "The Anti-Bellum Plantation System," by Dr. U. B. Phillips at Olympia, Delphi and Corinth," by Prof. Charles Foster Smith; "A Round Table in Rome," by Prof. Grant Spawormann; Dr. Chancellor on the theory of culture and the theory of education; and Dr. E. F. Hausmann's lecture at the meeting of the Greenwald-Gesellschaft, Wednesday evening. The second meeting of the conference of mathematicians will be addressed Tuesday by Prof. J. B. Skinner, and Prof. J. A. Pyro will give dialect readings Wednesday afternoon. A special lantern slide exhibit of scenes from the festivals of the New York Ethical Culture school on Wednesday night will be interpreted by Percival Chubb and illustrated with music by P. W. Dykeman and a chorus. An excursion to the Dulles of the Wisconsin will be conducted Friday by Prof. R. H. Whitebeck.

Bishop McQuaid Has 40th Anniversary

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Rochester, N. Y., July 11.—Owing to the state of Bishop McQuaid's health there will be no elaborate celebration tomorrow of the fortieth anniversary of his consecration to the episcopate. Bishop McQuaid is now in his eighty-fifth year and is the oldest member of the Roman Catholic hierarchy in America.

On the occasion of the recent visit to Rochester of Cardinal Logans the venerable bishop overtook his strength and has not been well since. Owing to his advanced years his condition is regarded as somewhat critical.

Bishop McQuaid is the first Roman Catholic bishop of this city, having been consecrated July 12, 1868. He has held parishes in New Jersey and for a time was rector of Newark Cathedral. He is the founder of Seton hall college and seminary, and for ten years was its president.

DOCTOR OSLER 60 YEARS OLD TODAY

But Is About to Run for Lord Rectorship of the University of Edinburgh.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, July 11.—Dr. William Osler, who while a professor of medicine at John Hopkins University had fame thrust upon him by his reported declaration that sixty years was the limit of man's usefulness, will himself enter upon his sixtieth year tomorrow. It is evident, however, that the eminent physician and instructor has no immediate intention of resorting to the chivalrous battle, for he has consented to run in opposition to Winston Churchill and George Wyndham, ex-chief secretary for Ireland, for the Lord Rectorship of the university of Edinburgh next November.

EDITOR PAYS FINE TO AVOID SENTENCE

Found Guilty of Libel He Satisfies Judgment by Cash Payment.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Montevideo, Wis., July 11.—A fine of $25 and costs amounting to $214 was imposed by Judge Korwin in circuit court upon C. M. Wright of Milwaukee, editor of the Daily Tribune of this city. In default of payment of the fine the defendant was ordered to jail for six months. Wright paid the fine. He was charged for criminal libel against William Rabe, president of the County Industrial association.

ELECTION EXPECTED TO BE VERY QUIET

Choosing of Presidential Electors in Panama Will Be Made Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Panama, July 11.—Present indications are that the election of presidential electors tomorrow will take place in an orderly manner. At the same time the authorities are prepared to promptly suppress any disorderly demonstrations. A victory for Donato Obando, the independent candidate for the presidency of the republic, seems assured. The electors chosen tomorrow will meet August 1 to elect the president.

SOUTH CAROLINA LAUNCHED IN PHILADELPHIA TODAY

Daughter Of Governor Of South Carolina Christens The New Battleship

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—Into the waters of the Delaware River, on whose shores so many ships of the "new navy" have been built, there was launched today the great steel battleship South Carolina. Built by the Cramp Shipbuilding company, the South Carolina, a sister ship to the Michigan, launched a few weeks ago in Camden, is about fifty per cent completed and will be turned over to the government before the end of next year. The contract for her construction was signed two years ago this month and her keel was laid December 18, 1906.

The launch of the South Carolina was entirely successful, and was witnessed by a number of invited guests, including an official party from the Palmetto state and a number of distinguished naval officers from Washington, New York and other points. The Navy department also was well represented.

It was a fine day at Kensington, as all such occasions are, and when the gates of the great Cramp yards were thrown open to the public shortly before noon an immense crowd surged in to witness the launch of the latest addition to the nation's fleet. Grouped about the wharves and dotting the river for miles around were craft of every description, from local excursion boats to foreign steamers.

Governor Ansel of South Carolina was one of the conspicuous figures at the christening stand. The ceremony of naming the big battleship was performed by the Governor's daughter, Miss Frederika Ansel.

It was a few minutes past noon when the last shores were knocked from the ways and the colossal vessel began her brief journey. Swinging aloft the wine bottle, which was clothed with the Stars and Stripes, Miss Ansel crashed it against the funnel work and uttered the christening words. As the mammoth hull glided gracefully down the greased slides, the enthusiasm of the crowd found vent. To the shouts and cheers of the people who lined the river banks the South Carolina was swung, gracefully to its mid-stream that the pandemonium subsided.

After the ceremonies the invited guests were entertained at luncheon by the officials of the shipbuilding company. Informal addresses were delivered by Governor Ansel and other notables present.

The South Carolina and her sister ship Michigan are regarded by naval experts as marvels in the art of marine architecture. They come closer to the Dreadnought class of warships in the English navy than any other big vessels in the American navy.

The principal dimensions of the South Carolina are: Length between perpendiculars, 450 feet; breadth on load waterline, 80 feet; normal displacement, 16,000 tons; full load displacement, 17,500 tons; designed speed on trial, 21 knots; placement, 18 12 knots; horsepower, 17,000; bunker capacity, 2,100 tons.

In addition to a main battery of eight 12-inch breech loading rifles, the South Carolina will be equipped with two submerged torpedo tubes and will carry a secondary battery of twenty-two 5-inch rapid-fire guns, two 3-pounder semi-automatic guns, eight 1-inch semi-automatic guns, two 3-inch field pieces, four machine guns of 0.31 caliber.

The hull will be protected on the waterline by a complete belt of armor eight feet wide, having a thickness of eleven inches throughout the main gun spaces and twelve inches at the magazine spaces. For a height of eight feet above the main belt there will be three feet of armor, eight inches thick at the top to ten inches thick at the bottom. There will be a complete protective deck from stern to stern. The magazines will be so arranged that about one-half of the total supply of ammunition will be carried at each end of the ship.

The propelling engines will be of the vertical twin-screw, four-cylinder, triple expansion type, of a combined type, of a combined indicated horsepower of 16,500. Each engine will be located in a separate watertight compartment. Each of the two funnels of the vessel will be one hundred feet high above the base line. The crew of the South Carolina will number 51 officers and 758 men.

TOOK DEGREES IN SPANISH LANGUAGE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Superior, Wis., July 11.—C. P. Barrett is a man who has an interesting story to tell of his experience as such. But three of the thirty-three degrees and those the first three, were taken in English. The remaining thirty he took in the Spanish language. For some time Mr. Barrett was located in Mexico City as general agent for the National lines of Mexico, and in order to take the most of the Masonic work he had to become thoroughly familiar with the Spanish language. This he did, and went all the way through. He says that it was rather an interesting experience and that few people of this country have had it.

Tomorrow will be the closing day of the ninth annual convention of the Swedish Epworth League societies of the western district of Swedish Methodist church, which was started in this city with a banquet on Tuesday night. The convention will meet next morning at 10 o'clock at the Epworth club. The delegates and visitors here are enjoying a trip on the St. Louis river. The entire day is being taken for the outing.

The sum of $19.00 has been handed over to the city by the Northern Brewing company for the bunch of licenses it will get for saloons in various parts of the city. In all there will be 38 licenses at $500 each.

MADE AN EXILE BY HIS SISTER'S ACTION

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chippewa Falls, Wis., July 11.—Upon the promise of leaving Chippewa county and never visiting his home again, Mrs. Lizette Sturdevant, his sister, decided to not press the matter and she had brought against him and also paid the costs and gave him and his family a good lesson in the habit of obeying them. When Mrs. Sturdevant interfered he strangled her, and in other ways mistreated her. Mr. Sturdevant is the brother of former Attorney General L. M. Sturdevant.

All Are Clean
Chippewa Falls, Wis., July 10.—Somerset is undergoing a thorough cleaning. Homes are being painted, houses enlarged and screened and all its residents are getting ready for a harvest of easy money. The activity comes about from the fact that a letter has been received from John Till, the plaster-on-the-back artist, stating that he would leave Austria on his return to Somerset July 20. Till says that he has grown fat and is ready for the plaster campaign.

New Insect
Chippewa Falls, Wis., July 12.—Corn in this vicinity is being attacked by a new insect, which is black, shaped, half-inch long, brown black and slim head. The insect generally feeds on the corn blades. They first attack the blades, eating all the leaves and then attack the stalk. They also attack the ears. Efforts to exterminate the insect with paris-green proved a failure.

New York, July 11.—Hearst's two newspapers in New York, the American and Evening Journal, today announced a loss of confidence on their part in both the democratic party and Bryan.

EXHIBITION OPENED IN WINNIPEG TODAY

Industrial Exhibition Showing Resources and Industries of Western Canada.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Winnipeg, Man., July 11.—Bigger and better than ever before, the annual exhibition of the Winnipeg Industrial exhibition association was opened today under most promising auspices. A large crowd was on hand for the opening exercises and many notables were among the participants.

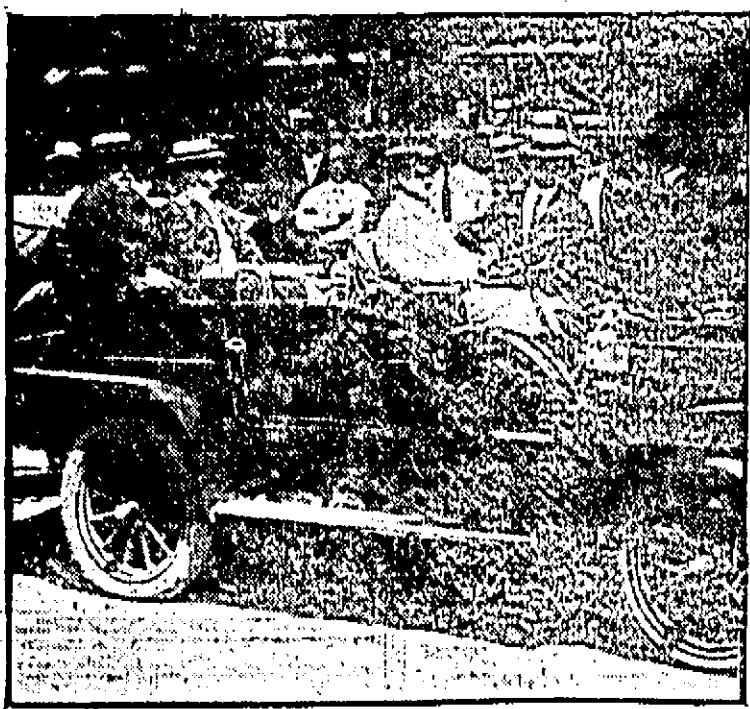

The exhibition halls are filled this year with a wealth of exhibits that for variety and scope have never been exceeded in this section of the Dominion. The industries and resources of western Canada are comprehensively illustrated by the great display. Especial attention has been paid to the agricultural and live stock exhibits, though other lines of activity have not been neglected. Amusement features are numerous and of a high class and during the coming week there will be a great band tournament, a race programme and other entertainment features.

pushing down the furnace floor and worked his way up the chimney, with the flames reaching his feet. When Nils reached the suffocating boy he used his head for a ram, and, collecting all his forces, dislodged the boy. Then he continued his upward climb, pushing along the boy with his head and shoulders until they reached the roof.

When the rescuers came they found Nils' clothes and hair burned off, his feet and legs charred and his hands burned to a crisp.

Nils will never be able to use his hands and feet again.

"Very well" said King Gustaf, "we will use him for decorating purposes. He is an ornament to the human race."

Most of his estate is left to the widow.

Tranton, N. J., July 11.—The will of ex-President Grover Cleveland was probated Friday at the home of Mrs. Cleveland in Princeton. Surrogate John W. Cornell went there for that purpose.

The will is in Mr. Cleveland's own handwriting and makes no disclosure as to the extent of his wealth. After some minor bequests and the creation of a fund of $10,000 for each of the four children, the remainder of the estate is left to Mrs. Cleveland. In the will Mr. Cleveland expresses the desire that he be buried in the place where he should die, and that his body be not removed unless it should be absolutely necessary to have it removed by the side of his body.

PLATFORM AND MATE SUIT BRYAN

NOMINEE HIGHLY PLEASED BY WORK OF CONVENTION.

HIS TELEGRAM TO KERN

Stronous Four Days at Fairview Closed with Great Ovation by the Citizens of Lincoln.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 11.—William Jennings Bryan, for the third time the nominee of the Democratic party for president, after four days and nights of strenuous endeavor which have brought him a running mate and a platform over both of which he is enthusiastic, retired Friday night to dream of Democratic success next November.

That is, his dreams will be true, if they follow his better, but it was by no means certain that exhausted nature would allow even so pleasant an encroachment on his slumbers.

Like His Running Mate.

When he received the news of the nomination of Mr. Kern for vice-president, Mr. Bryan said that his views on the nomination could best be expressed in the telegram which he sent to Mr. Kern. He is not only pleased with the nomination, but pleased that it was made with such unanimity. There were a number of persons whom he counted as available and Kern was always included in this list. Mr. Kern and Mr. Bryan have been political and personal friends for many years. The following is the telegram:

"Hon. John W. Kern, Denver, Col.: Accept my warmest congratulations. Your nomination gratifies me very much. We have a splendid platform and I am glad to have a running mate in such complete harmony with the platform. Stop off and see us on your way east. William Jennings Bryan."

Up All Night at Fairview.

An all night session was held at Fairview by Mr. Bryan, a few personal friends and a number of newspaper men. During the long hours, while waiting for the reading of the platform, and the balloting on the nomination for president, Mr. Bryan, throwing off the accumulated fatigue of the three previous days, held all listeners in close attention by the repetition of story after story suggested by the incoming news from the auditorium at Denver. It was full daylight when, after receiving the congratulations of those present and drinking of unfermented grape juice, he retired to snatch a few hours' rest.

At seven o'clock he was up and about, for the advance guard of enthusiastic Lincoln citizens calling to pay their respects was already arriving. At ten o'clock, by trolley, by automobile, by wagon and on foot, the crowd arrived, the Lincoln Bryan club among them and headed by a brass band. It was a wild and enthusiastic crowd, reflecting in no small degree the delicious enthusiasm of the convention.

TRAIN ROBBER IS SHOT.

Lone Highwayman Wounded and Captured in Idaho.

St. Paul, Minn., July 11.—A report received at Great Northern railway headquarters here says that a lone highwayman attempted to hold up the west-bound fast mail train No. 3, one and one-half miles east of Naples, Idaho. Conductor Mathews of the train and the robber, whose name is Robert Roman, exchanged a fusillade of shots. The conductor was the better marksman and shot the robber through the lungs, breaking one rib.

The man left his package of dynamite and other tools and fled down the track to Naples, where he attempted to hide under a water tank. The officers and train crew tracked him there and captured him. He declares he was the only man concerned in the venture.

Happgood and Kilby Freed.

New York, July 11.—Herbert J. Happgood, president of Happgood Incorporated and his secretary, Ralph L. Kilby, were discharged Friday for lack of evidence in the case in which they were arrested on July 2, charged with obtaining stock subscriptions to the Happgood Sales company through misrepresentation.

Saul Chosen King. 1 Sam. x: 17-27. (Read the ninth and tenth chapters.)

Golden Text.—He that ruleth over men must be just, ruling in the fear of God. 1 Sam. xiii:13.

What is the first essential in order to be a success, in ruling over other children or men?

What steps had led up to the choice of Saul as the king of Israel? (Chapter 9.)

For what qualities did God, Samuel and the people, select Saul as king? If the asses of Kish, Saul's father, had not been lost, and if Saul had not been seeking them and come into the land of Zuph where Samuel lived, would Saul have been chosen king of Israel?

Did God have anything to do with the going astray of the asses of Saul's father? (Chap. ix:3.)

What part do circumstances play in the hands of God, in causing nations and individuals to carry out his purposes?

Verse 17.—What does the calling of the people "unto the Lord," mean? What idea did they have, in those days, as to where God was? and what was the idea of Jesus? and what does selection teach today, concerning God's presence?

Where was Mizpah, and what were the people called there for? Verse 18.—What had God done for Israel in the past?

How do you account for it that in view of all God had done for them, in the past, that they doubted him for the future?

Verse 19.—In what way had they rejected God?

When we have more confidence in circumstances, or in an arm of flesh, than we have in God, do we reject him?

What is the thing to do so that we can see and hear, and obey God, and to have a faith which will not change with circumstances?

Verse 20:21.—What method did they probably adopt to select their king?

Does God hear and answer the prayer for guidance of all who seek such guidance?

When a company of Godly men seek to know the mind of God, may that mind be found by a ballot or by the casting of the lot, or is there a better method? (See Acts 1:23-26; xiii:2.) (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)

What kind of a king did Israel want?

What kind of a man do the people in this community crown as king?

Verse 22.—Did Saul know that he was to be selected as king? and why did he hide himself?

Verse 23.—Is there any merit in being a big and powerful man?

Verse 24.—Did the people rejoice more in Saul than in God?

Verse 25.—What did Samuel probably say as to the manner of the kingdom?

What are the practical lessons to be learned from this lesson?

The Epicures.

An eminent man who is a strict abstainer from both wine and animal food is obliged, in consequence of this peculiarity, to refrain from dining out. GOODMAN'S HACK CHOSEN BY BEES

MILLIONS OF BEES BEGIN TO SWARM ON MILWAUKEE ST.

REMOVED WITH DIFFICULTY

Invasions of the Carriage And Are Finally Taken Out by Being Induced to Enter a Box.

Some Apologists claim a swarm of bees. Incidentally, Peter Goodman had a swarm he did not want and had hard work to get rid of them. It all occurred on West Milwaukee street this noon and those who saw the bees coming say they dropped from the sides and vanished inside Goodman's hack as though it had been selected by popular vote. Peter Goodman was home for lunch when the first invasion occurred. When he returned he found some bees humming around the carriage, but did not notice them particularly.

At the door while waiting for a train he noticed more, and then he discovered they were swarming in the inside of the carriage. He tried to first to remove the pests failed, being unable to get them out. A large box was obtained, but somehow the bees would not swarm into it. Strange to say, the swarm was getting thicker and thicker than ever. So the team was driven to the barn and unhitched and the work of getting them from the hack into the box completed.

One of the wonderful features about the whole affair was that the bees did not resent the interference of the man and except for a few being stung no one was injured.

Where the bees came from or to whom they belonged is not known.

BIG SEWER EMPTIES IN STAGNANT WATER.

Health Officer Waule says CHY's Well-Being Is Endangered by State of Affairs at Main St. Outlet.

Health Commissioner G. C. Waule started out on the trail of the City Engineer, the chairman of the council committee on sewers, and other officials of the municipality this morning in the hope of having something done, and done promptly, with regard to lengthening the outlet of the main sewer on the East Side, which is now discharging from Itasca street into dead water, many yards distant from the current of the stream, and becoming partially clogged, from time to time, owing to the absence of any movement to carry away the vast quantities of sewage discharged there. According to Dr. Waule the health and well-being of the community are seriously threatened by this condition of affairs and something must be done to remedy it, without delay. This morning a group of small boys were in swimming in the noxious waters, only a few yards from the outlet.

ST. PAUL GETTING READY FOR SHRINERS

Officer Peter Champlin Tells About His Recent Visit to the Twin Cities.

Officer Peter Champlin, who, in company with his wife, returned from a trip to Minneapolis and St. Paul this week, says that great preparations are being made in the latter city for the Shriners' carnival on Wednesday next. The splendor of the electric lights is unsurpassed and gorgeous footlights of tri-colored lamps are being strung on the main business streets. The environs of the Twin Cities are still badly flooded and in the lowlands farmers are trying to plant the few dry spots that rise above the surrounding mud. Nearly twice the usual volume of water is passing over Minneapolis Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Champlin spent considerable time in a tour of the marble chambers of Minnesota's $10,000,000 capital. The former was greatly interested also in a new-fangled bulletin board in the down town district which showed by means of lights traveling about a miniature diamond every minute of ball and players in a game which was in progress some distance away. The crowd of shouting stay-at-home fans about this board was so large that the police officers had a hard time keeping a passage-way open.

The dinner is in charge of the table committee and will be a company affair as no private parties are to be allowed. The sports and games are to be in charge of Sterling Campbell and Floyd Demmon and everyone is requested to bring horse-shoes, croquet sets and hammocks.

$29 PENALTY FOR USING A SET LINE

In Rock River Was Paid by Herman Holsapple of the Town of Rock.

Herman Holsapple, a twenty year old former residing in the town of Rock, was arraigned in municipal court this morning on the charge of violating the fish and game laws by using a set line, with seventy-five hooks attached thereto, in Rock river. He entered a plea of guilty. While admitting that he knew that such wholesale fishing was contrary to law and also that Deputy Game Warden Peter Danfahl had previously warned him on the subject, he said that he wanted a mess of perch for the table; that he had little time in which to get them; that fish were about the only meat his wife could eat; and that he did not think that it was any very heinous offense to get a mess for the table in such a manner. On his promise to keep within the law, hereafter, Judge Elford levied the minimum fine of $25 and costs amounting to $1. The fine and costs were paid.

W. S. JEFFRIS HEADS POLICE COMMISSION

And C. C. MacLean Succeeds Himself as Secretary—Annual Meeting Held Last Evening.

At the meeting of the first and police commissioners last evening, W. S. Jeffris was elected president to succeed Dr. W. H. Judd and C. C. MacLean was named as secretary. It was the ruling of President Jeffris that pending a decision in the trial involving the commissioner's rights, which is now pending in circuit court, that body should continue to exercise the powers delegated by law, hearing and acting on any charges that may be preferred against any patrolman serving under Chief of Police George Appleby, should such be made.

It is learned that the meeting was a most heated one and that many matters of importance were discussed with much vehemence. As President of the commission, Mr. Jeffris will make a most efficient officer.

WILL FURNISH SAND TO THE AUDITORIUM

Local Sand Company to Furnish Milwaukee Auditorium with Its Screened Product.

When the big Milwaukee Auditorium is completed Janesville will have its part in its building as the local sand company in Spring Brook has just secured the contract to furnish it with all the screened sand it is to use. This important structure will stand where the old Exposition building formerly stood and will cover an entire block. It is to be absolutely fire-proof even, the seats being made of concrete. Tons upon tons of iron is being used in the reinforcement of the structure and when completed it will have a capacity that can accommodate the largest conventions in the United States.

FIRE DEPARTMENT VERSUS BAND BOYS

Edgerton Fire Ladders And Tooters of Horns Met on the Diamond To Decide Supremacy.

Edgerton, July 11.—While the nine from the fire department won the first game in their series with the nine from the Edgerton Cornet band, the question of championship is not yet decided. There was some exceedingly good playing on the part of both teams at the driving park and it is not easy to say who will come out ahead and capture the Alwood-Stewart trophy. Rooters for both teams claim they will carry off the palm.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 11, 1868.—Post Office Robbery.—We learn from Mr. J. E. Scott that the post office at Emerald Grove was broken open Thursday night last, and two dollars in money and two dollars in stamps and a patent lever watch, belonging to our informant, was stolen. An entrance to the building was effected by taking out a light of glass from a window.

Aurora Bonalls.—In the northern heavens, last night, was a brilliant display of the aurora borealis, with the usual fantastic display of advancing and retreating auroral streaks. But soon after ten o'clock there was a manifestation which we had never seen before, and which we think must have been new to nearly every one in this latitude. It consisted of a column of auroral light, about the apparent size of a full rainbow, with its base in the northwest heavens, and from that point spreading the entire arch to within thirty degrees of the southern horizon. The light from it was as bright as to attract the attention of non-stargazers, and hundreds of our citizens looked admiringly upon the beautiful spectacle. It remained unchangeable in its brightness for several minutes and then gradually faded out.

London, July 11.—The London press generally consider the Democratic nomination unfavorable to success. The Standard thinks sanguine democrats may well doubt if Seymour can defeat the most popular American warrior. The News says defeat is sure to follow the nomination of so weak a candidate as Seymour. The Herald treats the coming contest as a foregone conclusion and thinks Grant's personal popularity will elect him in any event.

Pottsville, Pa., July 11.—The strikers continue their strike preparations. Gangs of miners were moving about in all directions last night, although no violence was committed. The strikers have driven the workmen from the Mill Creek railroad this morning.

The Marshal of the county, with an armed force, is guarding the furnaces in the vicinity of Pottsville. A fight appears inevitable.

The nomination of Seymour and Blair falls like a wet blanket upon our Democratic fellow citizens. They feel as if Seymour's nomination was bad enough, but that to put up Blair for the vice-presidency was a little too tough.

RIPPLES OF MIRTH

BENEFIT OF THE DOUBT.

"Then it was a pedestrian crossing before me. I think he was thinking deeply on some subject—I think he was. I could have got down after the wheels passed over him and asked him just what subject it was, but you know how desirable it is to ask questions of a stranger. I am not sure whether he died or not. If he did die, probably he would have been a good deal better off than I am now. I then increased the speed to nine miles an hour, and was jogging along and singing to myself when the pedestrian and utterly mistaken officer arrested me."

"And then?"

"Then, as I was jogging a team I had the misfortune to run over a man minding his business, but I don't think he amounted to much. I should have stopped, only there was time and sound blowing about and I didn't want to get it in my eyes. I went on at seven miles an hour."

"And then?"

"I should have kept at that if I hadn't taken the wheel off a carriage. The lady who was riding in it began to ask for explanations and I put the speed at eight and went ahead. I hate to have to make long-winded explanations."

"Yes, and then?"

a year, but, on the other hand, may be recouped by the growth of correspondence. Duxton brought about the reduction. In 1897 this country received from America 11,000,000 letters; last year the figures had risen to 20,000,000, and in the house of commons for a quarter of a century, belongs to the well-known Essex family of which Sir Thomas Powell Duxton, Bart., is head. His first wife, who died in 1892, was a daughter of Lord Avebury.

George Von Langorito Meyer, postmaster general of the United States, was born in Boston June 28, 1858, was graduated from Harvard university and immediately identified himself with business, being connected with the Old Colony Trust company and was a member of the city government of Boston in 1890-1892 and was elected to the Massachusetts house of representatives, where he became speaker of the house. In 1898 he was elected national committeeman, and in 1900 was sent to Italy as ambassador from the United States. From there he was transferred to the post at London, from which place he was recalled to enter the cabinet as postmaster general.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ANNEXING OF HAWAII TO THE UNITED STATES.

Ten years ago Hawaii was annexed to the government of the United States, by a joint resolution of congress. At the time Hawaii had been a republic for four years under the presidency of Samuel B. Dole, who was appointed the first governor. The present governor, Walter F. Frear, was at that time chief justice of the supreme court of Hawaii. The present delegate to congress, Joseph K. Robinson, will have the honor of carrying back the news of the annexation made by the last Congress.

For the improvement of Pearl Harbor. The improvement of this beautiful harbor has been long desired by the shipping world and both the governor and representative have given the question their most ardent support.

The patriotic spirit which pervades the islands makes them as much a part of the nation as any of the territories, and in no part of the United States was there a greater display of patriotism and enthusiasm on July 4, the birthday of the republic, than in this far away summerland of the Pacific.

VENEZUELA BEING CUT OFF FROM THE WORLD.

Caracas.—Venezuela fears being totally cut off from communication with the world. This is primarily due to the plague, which has caused the greatest alarm over the world, but incidentally the troubles with the United States have much more to do with this than was at first supposed. It is an unbalanced fact that the withdrawal of the American legation was a partial attempt to force Castro to terms.

United States sent for the secretary in charge of the legation to come to Washington and report in detail the condition. With the withdrawal of the legation it is rumored that complete separation may come into being with this that was at first supposed. It is an unbalanced fact that the withdrawal of the American legation was a partial attempt to force Castro to terms.

"One fellow didn't like it, that's the truth. They were uneasy in their minds about that job of poor old Mitchell's, and they feared the which like the devil. The heart was out of them. One had near a burst of crying. A witch and a ghost didn't seem pleasant things to fight. Oh, it was all nonsense, but you know what fellows like that are. Their cry of 'The king!' and the sight of the woman caused a moment's hesitation. It was enough to give them the drop on us. But the colonel never hesitated. He flung himself straight at her and fired as he sprang. I just saw what happened before I got a crack on the crown of the head from the butt end of a rifle which knocked me out of time. As the colonel fired Peter Vassop flung himself in front of her and took the bullet in his own body. Dunstanbury jumped right on the colonel, cut him on the arm so that he dropped his revolver and grappled with him. Dunstanbury dropped his sword, and the colonel's wasn't drawn. It was just a tussle. They were tussling when the blood came flowing down into my eyes from the wound on my head. I couldn't see anything more. I fainted. Just as I went off I heard somebody cry 'Hanks up!' and I thought the fighting was pretty well over."

The fighting was over. One scene remained which Dunstanbury did not see. When Colonel Staffitz, too, heard the call "Hanks up!" when the firing stopped and all became quiet, he ceased to struggle. Dunstanbury found him suddenly changed to a log beneath him. His hands were already on the colonel's throat, and he could have strangled him now without difficulty. But when Staffitz no longer tried to defend himself he loosed his hold, got up and stood over him with his hand on the revolver in his belt. The colonel fingered his throat a minute, sat up, looked round and rose to his feet. He saw Sophy standing before him. By her side Peter Vassop lay on the ground, tended by David Williamson and one of his comrades. Colonel Staffitz bowed to Sophy with a smile.

"I forgot you, madame," said Staffitz.

"I didn't forget monseigneur," she answered.

He looked round him again, shrugged his shoulders and seemed to think for a moment. There was an absolute stillness, a contrast to the preceding turmoil. But the silence made uncomfortable men whom the fight had not shaken. Their eyes were set on Staffitz.

"The prince died in fair fight," he said.

"No. You sent Mitchell to murder him," Sophy replied. Her eyes were relentless, and Staffitz was ringed round with enemies.

"I apologize for this embarrassment. I really ought to have been killed. It's just a mistake," he said, with a smile. He turned quickly to Dunstanbury: "You seem to be a gentleman, sir. Pray come with me. I need a witness." He pointed with his unwounded hand to the barn.

Dunstanbury bowed assent. The colonel in his turn bowed to Sophy, and the two of them turned and walked off toward the barn. Sophy stood motionless, watching them until they turned the corner then she fell on her knees and began to talk soothly to Peter Vassop, who was hard hit, but, in David Williamson's opinion, promised to do well. Sophy was talking to the poor fellow when the sound of a revolver shot—a single shot—came from the barn. Colonel Staffitz had corrected the mistake. Sophy did not raise her head. A moment later Dunstanbury came back and rejoined them. He exchanged a look with Sophy, inclining his head as a man does in answering "Yes." Then she rose.

"Now for the barges and the guns," she said.

They could not carry the guns back to Volseul, nor, indeed, was there any use for them there now. But neither were monseigneur's guns for the enemies of monseigneur. Under Lakovitch's skilled directions (his wound proved slight) the big guns were so disabled as to remain of little value and the barges taken out into midstream and there scuttled with their cargoes. While one party pursued this work Dunstanbury made the prisoners collect their wounded and dead, place them on a wagon and set out on their march to Slavina. Then his men placed their dead on horses. They had lost three. Five were wounded besides Peter Vassop, but none of them severely; all could ride. For Peter they took a ever from the farm to convey him as far as the ascent to the hills. Up that he would have to be carried by his comrades.

It was noon before all their work was done. The barges were settling in the water. As they started to ride back to Volseul the first rank. The second was soon to follow it.

"We have done our work," said Lakovitch.

And Sophy answered, "Yes."

But Staffitz's men had not carried the body of their commander back.

They left it in the barn, cursing him for the trap he had led them into.

Later in the day the panic-stricken lock keeper stole out from the collar where he had hidden himself and found it in the barn. He and his wife lifted it with cursings, bore it to the river and flung it in. It was carried over the weir and floated down to Slavina. They fished it out with a boat-hook just opposite Rudeman's tower.

The hint to Captain Markert was a broad one. He reported a vacancy in the command and sent the keys of the fort to General Stenowicz. It was Sunday morning.

"The colonel has got back just when he said he would. But where are the guns?" asked General Stenowicz of Captain Markert. The captain had by now made up his mind which turn to take.

But no power ensued to Stenowicz. At the best his fate was a soft fall—a fall on a cushioned shelf. The cup of Kravonia's iniquity, full with the prince's murder, brimmed over with the punishment of the man who had caused it. The fight by the lock of Midland sealed Kravonia's fate. Civilization must be vindicated. Long columns of flat capped soldiers began to wind like a great snake over the summit of St. Peter's pass. Sophy watched them through a telescope from the old wall of Volseul.

"Our work is done. Monseigneur has mighty avengers," she said.

PITCHER ED SUMMERS.

Romance Made Detroit's Youngest Professional Ball Player.

Edith Summers, who pitches for the Detroit American league team and of whom great things are expected later on in the season by Manager Jennings is a professional baseball player because of a romance.

While attending Wabash college Summers fell in love with a "co-ed," and the girl fell in love with Summers. An early marriage was planned, but a serious obstacle loomed in the way of the pair. "How would the then seventeen-year-old college boy earn a living?"

"I can pitch ball!" declared Summers.

The athletic records at Wabash bore out the assertion, and the young couple were wed.

Summers left college and joined the Springfield (O.) team. Yes, he could pitch ball—winning ball. Then he went to Grand Rapids for more money, to Indianapolis for still more, and then to Detroit for a major league salary.

BRAID AGAIN GOLF CHAMPION

English Professional, With 291, Smashed All Records For Competition.

James Braid, the famous English golfer, captured the professional championship for the fourth time recently with a total of 291 for four rounds. This score beats all previous championship records.

Braid's score of 291 beats Harry Vardon's figures for his victory at Prestwick in 1903 by nine strokes. It also eclipses the 294 made by Jack White when he won at Sandwich. By his recent victory Braid joins Vardon with four wins, while J. H. Taylor has three to his credit. H. H. Hilton two, and other winners since 1892 have been Willie Auchterlonie, Alex. Hurd, Jack White and Arnold Mailey.

Braid has now played fifty-six rounds in championships, with a total of 4,395 strokes, or an average of 78.275.

The Badge of Honesty

Is an every wrapper of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery because a full list of the ingredients composing it is printed there in plain English. Forty years of experience has proven its superiority as a blood purifier and invigorator for the cure of stomach disorders and all liver ills. It builds up the run-down system as no other tonic can to which alcohol is used. The active medicinal principles of native roots such as Golden Seal and Queen's root, St. Peter's and Mandrake root, Bloodroot and Black Cherry bark are extracted and preserved by the use of chemically pure, triple-refined glycerine. Send to Dr. J. C. Pierce at Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet which quotes extracts from well-known medical authorities such as Drs. Bartholin, King, Scudder, Cline, Ellingwood, and Host of others, showing that these roots can be depended upon for their curative action in all weak states of the stomach, accompanied by indigestion or dyspepsia as well as by all bilious or liver complaints and in all wasting diseases where there is loss of flesh and gradual running down of the strength and system.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" makes rich, pure blood and so invigorates and regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, and through the blood, the entire system. It cures all skin affections, blotches, pimples and eruptions as well as scrofulous swellings and old open running sores or ulcers are cured and healed. In treating old running sores, or ulcers, it is well to insure their healing by applying to them Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve. If your druggist doesn't happen to have this Salve in stock, send fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. J. C. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and a large box of the "All-Healing Salve" will reach you by return post.

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine, or known composition, not even though the urgent donor may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. Sugar-coated, they granulate, easy to take secondly.

GENERAL INTERIOR OF ST. PAUL AUDITORIUM.

(By T. W. Ingersoll.)

St. Paul, Minnesota is to have one of the largest auditoriums for conventions, grand opera or musical productions of any city in the United States. Few public movements in America are more interesting than that which led to the construction of this huge edifice, which seats 10,500 people, which accommodates Sunday afternoon concerts or mammoth national conventions, and which can be changed in 15 minutes from a cozy theatre, seating 3,200, to a huge arena in which, as when St. Paul entertained William H. Taft, 2,000 people may sit down to dinner on a mammoth stage, while 8,000 may sit in comfortable chairs and look on.

The enormous structure was first conceived in April, 1905. On December 11 of the same year a citizens' committee had awarded the first contract and on a convenient site the first building operations were undertaken. Thirty days after the idea took tangible shape the citizens' committee was complete, and Phil W. Herzog, a stocky, middle-aged business man, head of an insurance firm and steel business, was made manager. Mr. Herzog cleared the decks for action, encouraged the believers, braced up the doubters and said with the emphasis that leaves no room for doubt, "This building will be built at once."

The great structure is of enormous proportions. It towers above four-story buildings in its vicinity, and is a city block in length from the foyer to the rear of its stage. Through the great arches opening from the street to the stage, four-story tall, go concrete loaded with people are frequently driven, and during the early months of the present year a full-fledged circus and wild west show, complete in every detail, with rings, aerial artists, troops of horses and all the usual circus features, gave performances after performance on the huge stage, and was not hampered in the least degree for either space or height overhead. On several occasions 10,000 people have been seated in the building at the same time, for the enjoyment of various on huge steel frames skillfully concealed. These great frames, pivoted on the ends reaching to the rear of the theatre, swing inward at will and the effect is as if the ends of great sections of the side walls had suddenly been moved inward carrying with them boxes and balcony seats. As the hinged box sections close in the proscenium arch drops downward from concealed recesses in the ceiling, a velvet curtain falls and the building is a beautifully appointed theatre, with all of the great stage, except the footlights hidden from view. Scenery is shifted into place and in a few seconds the theatre is ready for use, although back of the last stage properties there remains almost the whole of the stage, vacant and unused and large enough for a baseball diamond.

From the footlights to the far end of the stage, comfortable boxes occupy the side walls. In a few moments these are fitted with movable screen walls and partitions and become private dressing rooms, excellently lighted, with hot and cold water and every convenience.

Used as an auditorium for especially large gatherings, the box sections are again moved back into place, the proscenium arch disappears into the ceiling, the scenery is lifted into lifts far above and the building viewed from the inside is a huge rectangle with theatre balconies and parquet seats in front, with long side balconies at the right and left extending the entire length of the building, under which are boxes. At the far end of the building a balcony from side to side surmounts immense arches through which trucks loaded with scenery are driven from the street to the stage and unloaded before the footlights. From the footlights to the farthest row of theatre seats is a distance of 160 feet. The acoustic proportions of the building are wonderful. An experiment frequently tried proves that though the building is a city block in length inside, a person standing at the farthest row of gallery seats in the extreme end of the building and high above the footlights, can distinctly hear words been much commented upon. Heavy and substantial furniture of special pattern was designed for the building and all electrical fixtures were constructed with special reference to the decorations and the places in which they are hung.

Thorough business method dominated every step in the construction of the building. The work of building was carried on by a commission, or committee. Every contract and expenditure was subjected to rigid investigation and scrutiny. The result was the construction of a building in which the people have dollar for dollar and value for investment even to the hair's breadth. The total cost was $1,600,000. The structure is paid for and is at present under the charge of a city board, composed of practical business men, and a manager.

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

King Edward will formally open Olympic Stadium on Monday—Games Begin Next Day.
(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., July 11.—There promises to be no dearth of big news events the coming week, either in the home or foreign fields. The Olympic games abroad will attract keen attention on this side of the water, while at home there will be a multitude of big conventions and other events to interest public attention.

Tomorrow's presidential election in the republic of Panama promises to result in the choice of Senor Obaldia, the candidate of the Independent party. A large force of United States marines has been distributed over the little republic to prevent threatened disorders at the polls.

King Edward will formally open the great Olympic stadium in Shepherd's Bush Monday. The games will begin next day, and from then until July 25 the greatest aggregation of athletes the world has ever seen will struggle for the mastery.

During the week the officers and men of the American battleship fleet will be entertained on a magnificent scale at Honolulu.

Commissioners representing the United States and France will meet in Paris to discuss the proposed new commercial arrangement between the two countries.

Canada will be interested in the completion of the preparations for the Quebec Tercentenary celebration and the departure from England of the notables who are coming to take part in the programme of festivities.

The week promises to be one of comparative inactivity for the presidential candidates of the two leading parties, though conferences will be numerous and the plans for the real work of the campaign will be put in shape.

At Columbus, Ohio, the prohibitionists will meet in national convention Wednesday to adopt a platform and name candidates for president and vice-president. A number of names have been suggested for the head of the ticket and the ultimate selection is problematical.

Two big reunions, one North and one South, will attract attention during the week. In St. Paul the notables of the Myrtle Shrine will hold fourth, while at Dallas thousands of members of the order of Elks will gather for their annual national convention. Another gathering of interest, though of smaller proportions, will be the annual session of the Jewish Chautauqua assembly at Buffalo, Pa.

spectacles. A battalion of infantry can maneuver on the stage with room to spare.

The St. Paul auditorium is an oblong structure, 181 feet in width and 301 feet in length, having an average height of 71 feet. It is designed in the modern Italian Renaissance style. The facade is extremely simple and dignified and a very pleasing effect has been secured by the use of dark golden brown brick, with trimmings of terra cotta in the same color. All glazing throughout the building is of green and opal tinted glass, and all exposed woodwork was treated with a dark mahogany stain. On each side of the building are beautiful arcades, facilitating entry and exit, each 300 feet long, 15 feet wide and 18 feet high, with a barrel arch broken by pilasters and arch ribs every 15 feet. Each is illuminated by 50 incandescent lights from 10 especially graceful chandeliers.

The remarkable flexibility of the structure, which was secured by methods which were used at St. Paul for the first time and have been patented, makes it possible to transform the huge hall with its enormous stage into a beautiful theatre. The theatre occupies approximately one-third of the length of the building. Along the side walls are boxes, which with the balcony seats above them are constructed spoken in an ordinary tone of voice at the arches at the distant end of the great stage. A single speaker can make himself distinctly heard to 10,000 people, while great singers have enthusiastically praised the structure for its exceptional properties.

The entrances to the building, a dozen in number, open upon a wide lobby, from which a dozen doors lead to a beautiful foyer shut off from the theatre by swinging doors. From the lobby exceptionally wide and graceful staircases lead upward to the first balcony floor, on which is located a beautiful banquet room, with convenient cloak and retiring rooms at either end. Other staircases lead to the enormous balcony above.

Underneath the foyer are lounging rooms and lavatories, beautifully appointed and simply and effectively decorated.

Throughout the structure uniform decorative effects have been sought for. The scheme of colors embraced three tints and a background color, and simple mosaic patterns were used. In the main auditorium the designers sought to keep all decorations in scale with the magnitude of the building and the work was splendidly done. The building presents an especially attractive appearance and its beauty, with its thousands of lights in the evening, has

ROMANCE MORE IN THEIR LINE.

Factory Workers' Criticism of Louise M. Alcott's Great Story.

In a conversation about books which the author of "The Long Day" had with two of her workmates at a box factory, she spoke enthusiastically of "Little Women," and told them how she had read it four times, and that she meant to read it again some day.

"Little Women" was unknown to them, but their curiosity was roused over the unheard-of thing of anybody ever wanting to read a book more than once, and they pressed her to repeat the story for them. This she did with great accuracy of statement, and with genuine pleasure to herself at being given an opportunity to introduce anybody to Mrs. and Jo and all the rest of that doll, Miss Maren family.

When she finished, Phoebe stopped work and Mrs. Smith looked up from her label-pasting, saying: "Why, that's no story at all."

"Why, no," echoed Phoebe, "that's no story—that's just everyday happenings. I don't see what's the use putting things like that in books. I'll bet any money that lady what wrote it knew all them boys and girls. They just sound like real, live people; and when you was telling about them I could see them as plain as plain could be—couldn't you, Gwendolyn?"

"Yep," yawned Gwendolyn, undisturbedly bored.

"But I suppose farmer folks likes them kind of stories," Phoebe generously suggested. "They ain't used to the same styles of anything that us city folks are."—Youth's Companion.
